Dear

Many thanks for your letter of October 2nd. I too am sorry that I shall not have this opportunity of meeting you and your colleagues in Washington, but I naturally hope that it is only a pleasure deferred.

I have now talked to Mr. Marriott about his visit. He is accordingly making arrangements to arrive in Washington in the first week of December. It has occurred to us that there might be some advantage in having a few days available for informal discussions in advance of the more formal meeting. With this in mind I wonder if a time-table for Marriott's arrival on Monday, December 1st followed by the meeting on, say, Friday December 5th or Thursday, December 4th would be convenient from your point of view? Perhaps it would be best in any event for Marriott to fix a detailed plan directly with . I am therefore passing a copy of this letter to Marriott so that he may take up the correspondence directly with Warfield. 25X1

Yours sincerely,

(J.B. Clark)
